DEBORAH CHANG

Partner & Trial Attorney

Deborah Chang is a trial lawyer, the founder of Athea Trial Lawyers LLP, and is also a partner with Chang | Klein LLP in Los Angeles. She focuses her practice representing plaintiffs in complex catastrophic injury/wrongful death cases and has achieved some of the highest verdicts and settlements in the country.

Deborah has been an integral part of the teams in significant and important trials, including the Michael Jackson wrongful death case, the first ASR model hip implant trial tried in the country, and a $160,500,000 verdict that led to significant changes in industries using security guards. Many of her cases of first impression led to significant changes in industry standards and practices that improved safety for the public, including the following:

Record $17 million verdict in wrongful death of an adult child that ensured that visually impaired patrons using trains would be protected from falling in the gap between cars – thereby setting the stage for changes throughout the industry nationwide (Cuhbertson v. LACMTA).

After a nearly ten-year battle in the trial court, Court of Appeal and California Supreme Court, she prevailed in establishing that colleges and universities in California have a duty to protect students from known dangers in the classroom (Rosen v. The Regents of the University of California).

Bringing the first class action in the country on behalf of prisoners with AIDS in a maximum security prison, which led to a landmark settlement that established medical, programming, and housing protocols nationwide and was cited with approval by the 1991 Report to the President and Senate by the National Commission on AIDS. She thereafter drafted enacted Connecticut legislation that permitted the release of terminally ill prisoners, and established the first medical scholarship for individuals pursuing a nursing degree to work with patients with AIDS.

In 1996, she brought the first lawsuit in the country based on the Violence Against Women Act of 1994, 42 U.S.C. section 13891 (VAWA) and successfully argued for the upholding of the constitutionality of the statute in the first federal court to consider the issue. After reaching a settlement in the case, she lectured extensively on the issue of gender-motivated violence, and was a guest commentator on several national television shows regarding the statute, both before and after the United States Supreme Court eventually ruled that the civil remedy portion of the statute was unconstitutional.

She previously served as local, regional, and national counsel for a variety of companies, insurers, and manufacturers, including AIG Excess and Ford Motor Company. As part of her trial practice, Deborah has been extensively involved in jury research and focus groups. In 2000, she helped conceptualize and launch one of the first companies to provide online focus groups from a unique database of nearly 3.5 million Internet users. # CANDICE KLEIN

Partner & Trial Attorney

Candice Klein is a founding partner of Chang | Klein LLP. She has over 20 years of experience fighting and championing causes for plaintiffs, specializing in wrongful death, catastrophic personal injury, sexual assault and childhood sexual abuse cases. Candice works on every case with an unshakable devotion to help those who have suffered permanent and serious physical or emotional injuries. She understands that these injuries not only affect the victims, but their family members as well. She has recovered millions of dollars in jury verdicts and settlements on behalf of her clients.

Candice knew she wanted to be an attorney since she was 6 years old. Due to circumstances in her own life, she felt the need to help others and to be the voice for those who could not stand up for themselves. Immediately after being sworn in as a new lawyer, she was handed a file and told to go try it. Upon entering the courtroom, Candice knew that she was where she was meant to be, and that first trial solidified her passion for litigation and advocacy. Standing up and speaking for her clients is something that comes naturally because she sees her clients as an extension of her own family. She takes pride in building personal relationships with each one of her clients and their loved ones, and they know that she is someone whom they can trust and confide in during the ups and downs of litigation.

Candice was a trial attorney with Panish Shea & Boyle LLP for seven years, and prior to that, she was a partner at Carpenter, Zuckerman & Rowley LLP, where she exclusively represented injured people. She has tried more than 30 jury trials to verdict and has a proven track record of winning difficult cases.

Having completed UCLA's esteemed Gross Anatomy Program for Litigators, a science-based program designed to teach enrolled attorneys human anatomy, Candice is particularly effective at explaining her clients' medical damages to juries. With detailed lectures followed by actual laboratory time dissecting human cadavers, the course materials closely tracked the basic human anatomy class that every first year medical student must pass. She is also a graduate of Gerry Spence's prestigious Trial Lawyers College at the Ranch in Wyoming, and received her law degree from Southwestern Law School.

Candice has been named a Super Lawyer in Southern California since 2018 and recognized among the Best Lawyers in America in the practice area of Personal Injury Litigation – Plaintiffs. She has served as a speaker at numerous seminars involving civil litigation, from pre-litigation through trial, for entities such as the Consumer Attorneys of California (CAOC), the Consumer Attorneys of Los Angeles (CAALA), the San Diego County Bar Association, as well as the Los Angeles County Bar Association.

Currently serving as the Co-Chair of the Women in Law Committee for CAALA, Candice is an active member who is dedicated to women's and children's rights. She was recently elected to the CAALA Board of Governors and is a Board Member Emeritus of the Los Angeles Trial Lawyers' Charities (LATLC), which provides financial assistance to the homeless, hungry, disabled, survivors of abuse, veterans, and children's education.

Shattering gender stereotypes of a woman having to choose between a career or a family, Candice takes pride in being a working mama. Like others in her situation, she thrives in the noisy chaos of juggling depositions and hearing dates with remote school classes and making lunches. Candice, her husband, Shawn, and their son, Griffin, make their happy home in Topanga with their dog, Lacy, where they enjoy the local trails and proximity to the beach. Her family is always ready for an adventure and to try new things!

Candice's compassion, care and understanding have changed her clients' lives. Their words speak for themselves:

“My family, specifically our 3 year-old daughter, got through a terrible accident both physically and mentally because of Candice Klein...my daughter...looked at Candice as her personal “super hero.” I now believe, with the right team, sometimes justice does prevail.”

-Brooke B.

“Candice’s patience, kind heart, and confidence and knowledge made my mother feel at ease. She involved our whole family through the whole process; the passion for doing what’s right was clearly evident when working with her – as a family we felt like we weren’t just another case but real people who needed support...”

-Giovanni N.

“I wanted to express my gratitude for Candice Klein and her incredible team of women who helped me through a very difficult time in my life. From my very first meeting with Candice, I knew in my heart that she would be representing me. She worked diligently with me for over a year and a half and comforted me through my many mental breakdowns. She was more than my attorney, she was a friend I could rely on. She is compassionate, professional and knows her stuff. For anybody who has been through the legal system, you know that it’s a mentally draining process. And for anybody who is new to this, just like I was, you want Candice on your team because it’s tough. I was the type of client who needed her hand held the entire time. I asked many questions, had many moments of doubt, but it never seemed to bother Candice when I texted/called or emailed her. She was extremely responsive and put my priorities on the top of her list. If you’re reading this and are in need of an attorney, I would wholeheartedly recommend Candice and her wonderful team because they’ve changed my life.”

-L.M., sexual assault victim

“My attorney, Candice Klein, was attentive and sympathetic to me from the get-go. She was warm in character but fierce when it came to advocating for me.”
-Eden T.

SARAH SCHECKEL KIM

Trial Attorney

After five years as a trial attorney at Panish Shea & Boyle, LLP, Sarah Kim joins Chang Klein, LLP with extensive experience in representing personal injury plaintiffs — especially in matters involving wrongful death, catastrophic injury, sexual assault and childhood sexual abuse.

A compassionate and successful advocate, Sarah always takes the time to connect with her clients and understand their injuries and losses.

According to her, there is nothing more rewarding than being able to make her clients feel heard and understood.

Sarah's unwavering passion for the law combined with her innovative approach to storytelling have yielded countless victories. Some of these career highlights include compelling a special needs school to produce documents which ultimately proved it negligently supervised a young girl, leading to her sexual assault by another student; handily defeating a motion for summary judgment involving the recreational use immunity; beating a motion to compel production of pre-incident social media posts of a plaintiff; and successfully obtaining a protective order which kept a uniquely fragile, sexual assault victim from being deposed.

Sarah, a 2020 Super Lawyers Rising Star, received her B.A. from UCLA (Go Bruins!) and her J.D. from Loyola Law School, here in Los Angeles. While in law school she interned with the Los Angeles County District Attorney, Appellate Division and the Federal Public Defender's Office – Habeus Corpus Division.

Born and raised in the Chicago area, Sarah has made southern California her home for the past fifteen years and is still not missing those midwestern winters. # MARY ELLEN WHITEMAN, R.N., J.D.

Nurse Attorney

Mary Ellen is a nurse attorney who received her B.S.N. from the University of Rhode Island and her J.D. from Temple University in Philadelphia. After a rewarding career as an R.N. in the neuro-intensive care unit at Boston Children's Hospital and as a head nurse in one of the largest and most respected teaching hospitals and tertiary care centers in New England, Mary Ellen then completed law school in Philadelphia. After clerking for the Philadelphia Court of Common Pleas, she became an accomplished attorney and worked for some of the largest and most prestigious defense law firms in the country, including Day Berry & Howard (now Day Pitney) and Cummings & Lockwood in Connecticut, and Womble Carlyle (now Womble Bond Dickinson) in North Carolina.

She then realized that her true calling was working with and for plaintiffs in meaningful personal injury cases involving catastrophic injuries.

Mary Ellen has been licensed to practice law in the states of Connecticut, North Carolina, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania, and is currently admitted in the great state of Maine. Married to a physician whom she met as a resident when she was a nurse, Mary Ellen and her husband raised two talented sons (twins!) in their lovely tranquil town of Cape Elizabeth, Maine. In her spare time, she is a devoted "foodie" and supporter of great local restaurants, an accomplished chef and baker, an avid gardener, and the proud past winner of one of the town's spelling contests.

Mary Ellen has played an active and important role working on important cases and trials with record-breaking verdicts and settlements. She and Deborah Chang have worked together for over 30 years in cases of first impression throughout the country, including a class action representing prisoners with AIDS that became a model for the treatment and housing of HIV-infected prisoners throughout the country. One of her favorite memories is visiting Ward 9, designated by the prison as the “AIDS ward”, to deliver holiday gifts while she was pregnant.

As a nurse, attorney and mother, Mary Ellen works on each of our clients’ cases with expertise, passion, and devotion. Her extensive medical knowledge and ability to focus on important issues in medical records enable us to paint a full picture of the devastating impact that catastrophic injuries have on the patient and their family members.

We bring stories to life in the courtroom

That is what we are known for: key visuals that help you win at trial. And frankly, we are the best in the business at this critical task—which is the key to our success.

How do we do it? We have a unique way of brainstorming a case, analyzing the jury instructions and verdict form, reviewing the evidence, and distilling the case down to its very essence. We don't stop until it is exactly right. We spend time with our clients and their families and friends to persuasively capture the story of the case. We make sure they and/or their loved ones are never forgotten.

Lawyers from all over the country have sought our expertise to go through our unique brainstorming and visual storytelling process at all junctures of their cases: at the inception of the case, before and during litigation and discovery, and even right before the trial.

And we don't stop there. We think out-of-the-box with unfettered creativity and passion until we perfectly show and tell the story. Ingenious and inspiring slides, graphics, illustrations and animations. Models and demonstrative exhibits. Videos used in mediations and closing arguments.

Whatever it takes to teach, inspire, motivate and improve the odds of winning.

Studies confirm that juries remember what they see more than what they hear. And when you couple effective graphics with the right story, jurors remember even more. We have a team of talented lawyers, artists, medical illustrators, photographers, videographers, editors, storytellers, jury consultants, and marketing professionals who will bring your story and your case to life.
